

I agree with Pulver.com's petition that their service be ruled to not be a telecommunications service. After reading their petition and web site, it seems to me that the service they provide is closer to a phone book than a telecommunications service. Their service simply allows members to list their VoIP availability.